

Bedroom Furniture Moving Planner (Printable PDF)

Plan your move room by room, track furniture parts, hardware, and assembly order to make moving day faster and less stressful.

1. FURNITURE INVENTORY & HARDWARE LOG

Item Description (e.g., PAX, Malm)
Hardware / Screw Bag Label
Number of Disassembled Panels

2. DECONSTRUCTION PHASE CHECKLIST

- ☐ Label and Group Associated Panels Instantly
When tearing down heavy wardrobe structures or beds, use low-tack painter's tape to group matching frame elements together. This simplifies layout mapping in your new space [cite: 11, 18, 28].
- ☐ Isolate Cam-Locks, Pins, and Fastener Hardware
Never drop screws loosely inside moving boxes [cite: 18]. Isolate all structural cams, connector pins, and dowels into separate, clearly labeled storage bags taped to the panels [cite: 11, 18, 28].
- ☐ Secure a Safe Team-Lift Strategy for Bases
Heavy divans, sliding glass doors, or monolithic frames require careful team coordination [cite: 7, 9, 22]. Plan your transport path to protect internal joint brackets from snapping [cite: 7, 9, 22, 28].

3. NEW SPACE RE-ASSEMBLY CHECKLIST

- ☐ Audit New Room Floor Leveling and Contours
London residential floor profiles are frequently uneven [cite: 1, 18]. Run a spirit level across your intended assembly perimeter to prepare required leveling shims early [cite: 18, 24, 26, 28].
- ☐ Protect Your Surface Footprint Perimeter
Before unpacking your labeled panels, lay flat cardboard sheets over the flooring area [cite: 7, 11, 26]. This shields both your new floor and the furniture pieces from scuffs [cite: 7, 11, 26].
- ☐ Calculate Absolute Vertical Assembly Clearances
If your new bedroom ceiling clearance is tight, do not construct the chassis face-down [cite: 2, 10, 26]. Build out the main outer framework vertically from the ground up [cite: 1, 10, 26, 28].
- ☐ Conduct Electronic Utility Safety Sweeps
Prior to anchoring heavy cabinets or tall headboards exceeding 75cm, scan walls with a multi-detector to completely map out hidden pipe tracks and wiring lines [cite: 2, 8, 10, 12, 14, 28].
